Introduction to Colour

This analysis chart offers a light-hearted glimpse into the language of colour. The study of colour led to an understanding of my life purpose and continues to astonish clients and myself with relevant and accurate guidance.

Have you ever wondered whether the colours you are drawn to have any importance in your life? I have come to realize over the past 17 years that each colour choice I make reveals the answers to all my issues. My passion is to share with entrepreneurs and healers how your colour choices can reveal the answers you seek to your spiritual, personal, financial and marketing issues using free manifesto's such as this one, training programs and broadcasting.

The Language of Colour

Colour is a universal language. Red is the colour used by all countries to indicate the faucet that supplies hot water. Colour is also used to express emotions "I feel blue" for depression or sadness; or "I am green with envy".

Colour indicates levels of spirituality achieved; the Pope wears white, the colour of purity and the Dalai Lama wears orange, the colour of enlightenment. Evil or danger is depicted in black, the colour of our hidden and darker sides.

Colour Combinations

You may wonder why yellow is added to black to indicate danger; a combination used on road signs and police chevron tapes. Black is danger, the yellow is betrayal and translates to: you will betray yourself by putting your body in danger if you do not heed this warning sign.

The most famous yellow combination with another colour is of course McDonalds! The yellow arch on the red background translates to: when you are hungry you will survive if you eat our food. Yellow is the hungry stomach and red is about human survival. This colour combination makes us want to eat whatever they dish up, it will after all keep us alive! So a clever use of colour combinations can compel you to do things you may not really believe in and increase profits for a business.

Positive and Negative aspects of Colour

Each colour has a positive and a negative side, the positive side indicates your highest potential to strive for and the negative shows where your healing is needed or changes you can implement that will be of benefit to you.

For example: Coral is a colour that indicates a sensitive person. In the positive the person relating to this colour has an ability to be empathetic and achieve greatness by becoming famous, the CEO or a role model. In the negative aspect of sensitivity, coral indicates periods of playing the victim, creating dramas to be noticed and needing to be validated by others. So coral indicates the two polarities: Are you contracting your energy to stay small and trapped in a victim mentality, or are you expanding and becoming limitless?

Further Study

If colour is of interest to you, there are many free resources on my website to explore, from free Angel Card readings and Meditations, to free Colour & Numerology Predictions for the year, to a copy of my second book that focuses on entrepreneurs, offering information on how your challenges with mastering the law of attraction can be helped with colour frequencies.

If you enjoy this spiritual colour manifesto, you can deepen your knowledge of colour psychology by purchasing the Colour Mirrors Oracle Cards. More details and direct links for resources appear at the end of this manifesto.

And remember, if you pick an Angel card from the deck, this indicates your highest potential to achieve, it is literally a message from your soul saying 'you can do this and you have support coming in!'

If you select a Dragon card (☺ yes there are dragons about...) you are getting a message from your power animal saying 'this is it, no more warnings, no more procrastination – just do it!' Here are some examples from the deck:

PLEASE NOTE THAT THIS MANIFESTO WAS CREATED WITH THE INTENTION TO ENCOURAGE YOU TO LOOK AT YOUR PATTERNS FROM A DIFFERENT PERSPECTIVE THROUGH THE LENS OF COLOURS. ALWAYS SEEK OUT PROFESSIONAL HELP FOR BOTH HEALTH AND WEALTH ISSUES.

How to use this Manifesto

Pick a colour circle. The first one helps you identify or suggest a possible idea on where your healing is needed for you to clear the path to serve others to your highest ability. It may be an issue you are already aware of and this is a reminder for you to focus your efforts on transforming that issue.

The second colour circle you select suggests something that you can do to activate your ability to be of service, to help someone else. It may also be confirming that you are already following your calling and to persevere with the action or study you are taking.

The third colour circle you select, reminds you that you can succeed. You will overcome difficulties and hints at what your potential future looks like if you become more mindful – kind and loving towards yourself and others.

For Example: The question on your mind right now may be: “I know I am a healer, what is the way forward for me to be of genuine impactful service?”

Colour choices 1st Orange, 2nd Yellow, 3rd White.

Colour	Healing Challenge	Service Call to Action	Mindful Potential
 ORANGE	To forgive everyone that has ever hurt or betrayed you, then forgive yourself for your transgressions.	Offer forgiveness workshops and lead meditations, help others transform anger into acceptance and fear into love	Daily meditation has helped you become mindful – to think before you speak and re-act to situations.
 YELLOW	Go back on your timeline and be the healer to your wounded inner child, wipe away tears and offer hope.	You have an ability to work with gifted children through education, workshops, publishing or broadcasting.	Your happiness radiates like a ball of sunshine, bathing everyone in a glow of joy and bliss.
 WHITE	People’s behaviour mirrors aspects of you to alert you to where your healing is needed, fix you not them.	Encourage others one-to-one to express their uniqueness and become empowered spiritually awakened beings.	Your home is a haven for lost souls, you know just how to nurture and restore their faith in themselves.

Orange identified where you still need personal healing, yellow indicates who and how you can serve others and white is a glimpse of how you will live your life in the future. Place those colours in your spaces, symbolically through decor or wear clothes in those colours. Take the healing deeper by indulging in a colour bath, a form of self-help therapy by buying a Colour Mirrors bath oil bottle or spray a colour essence around your home, office or your body to help elevate your frequency.
